Tension is high in Warning as they meet to discuss what to do. Chatter is warbled with worry. The stanzas get shorter. Tension erupts at the the end resulting in Ambush.

“The chatter warbled with worry” still says the fear is present and strong. But they must trust their tribal ways, it is the only way for them to try and stop the fear and fright.

Fear builds the tension. While in Nature and Harmony it is lacking tension, and therefore seems to be lacking fear, we can see there is fear “he can see the women hurrying back from the hidden pathway”.

Tension slowly comes back down. While it is still tense, in Silence the young women sit so still that we feel almost nothing; however, there is still unease. The stanzas end with two sentences justified in the middle. The final two lines are referring back to the grief.

After the death, while the girl sits like a rock, there is no fear. She is unable to fear or feel.
